Evidence 4 Impact Officer

The Institute for Effective Education is looking for a motivated, organised individual to work as the Evidence 4 Impact Officer to manage, update, and promote the Evidence 4 Impact website.

Evidence 4 Impact (E4I), http://www.evidence4impact.org.uk/, provides a clear rating system for educational interventions, backed up by research evidence. The aim is to help enable teacher and school administrators to make well-informed judgements on the extent to which a programme's effectiveness is proven.

Central to E4I is a comprehensive database of programmes available in the UK, including details of their effectiveness, together with links to the providers who can offer further support. The database can be easily searched with results tailored to the specific needs of a particular class or school.

Your role will be to keep the E4I database up-to-date by finding new interventions that schools are currently being offered and new research on existing interventions within the database. You will also be responsible for updating the website, responding to queries from the public, and promoting E4I to schools, other educational organisations, and policy makers.

The post-holder will work under the direct supervision of the Deputy Director of the IEE.

About the IEE

The Institute for Effective Education aims to improve teaching and learning for all children and young people by working closely with schools to support the development and use of effective and efficient approaches. Based in York, we are committed to sharing knowledge with, and between, people working in education policy and practice. We are also building support for evidence-based education, and provide expertise and practical tools wherever we can. We have developed resources aimed at people on the front line of education, including publications, events, and partnerships. For more information, see www.the-ieee.org.uk/.
